REBELS MOVE ON FEDERAL FORCES

Decisive Battle at Ojinaga Expected Either Today or Tomorrow

2000 REBELS CAPTURED LAMULA PASS SATURDAY

Ojinaga Defenders Deserting—Many Shot by Officers Trying to Cross Border

EL PASO, Dec. 29.—A decisive battle at Ojinaga, opposite Presidio, Tex., is expected today or tomorrow. The rebels are concentrating on the town from three sides. Saturday they captured Lamula Pass, the key to the town, and it is believed that the main body of the rebels got through the Pass. If this is true, they will probably make an attack today.

The federal garrison at Lulap, twenty-eight miles southeast, fell back to Ojinaga last night, reporting the approach of 2000 rebels. Scores of the defenders of Ojinaga are deserting, and many are reported as shot by officers while trying to reach the American border before the battle begins.

U. S. WILL DEMAND OF VILLA PROTECTION OF FOREIGNERS WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—General "Pancho" Villa, the rebel commander at Chihuahua, will receive additional representations from the state department today regarding the treatment of foreigners.

Acting Secretary of State John Bassett Moore will instruct the American consul at Chihuahua, Mr. Letcher, to demand of Villa full protection for Spanish citizens as well as citizens of other countries. Villa will be requested to release the women and children of the Spaniards forced to flee from the state into Texas.

Huerta Fails to Get Funds If Huerta has obtained any loan recently, the state department has no knowledge of it. One of the officials of the department said this afternoon that Huerta would almost give his life for some money right now; that it is a lack of money which is forcing him to consider plans of relinquishing the reins as provisional president.

Reports that the Japanese are nervous and insisting on some decisive action by the United States in Mexico are branded as false. The Japanese ambassador called at the state department yesterday and asked Mr. Moore to use his good offices with General Villa to protect Japanese citizens and their property in Chihuahua state.

GOV. WEST IS ON WAR PATH TODAY

Says He Will Close Copperfield Saloons and That He is to "Do It Right"

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 29.—Governor West made the following declaration today: "We are going to Copperfield; we are going to close the saloons and we are going to do it right." Governor West recently, upon complaint that conditions in Copperfield were deplorable and that the law was being violated by the saloon men, ordered the saloons to be closed. The sheriff of Baker county, where Copperfield is located, refused upon the grounds that he had no constitutional power to close the saloons. The citizens of the place claim their lives are endangered.

Governor West failed today to outline his probable procedure or whether he will call on the militia. He merely said, "There will be developments in a day or two."

MILLIONAIRES FINED—VIOLATE S. C. GAME LAW

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 29.—August Belmont, Morgan Belmont and C. Oliver Iselin, Jr., were fined $100 each by the chief game warden of South Carolina for shooting deer without a license on Mr. Belmont's hunting preserve in Hampton county. Although Mr. Belmont owns a magnificent estate and pays taxes in South Carolina, non-residents must secure licenses before hunting in any part of the state. Mr. Belmont said that carelessness was responsible for the absence of the licenses and he cheerfully gave the warden a check for $300.

PRESIDENT'S MAIL SENT TO CAPITAL

Forbidden to Attend to It—Desire for Privacy Violated May Quit Pass Christian

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss., Dec. 29.—Dr. Grayson forbade President Wilson to attend to his correspondence today. The doctor insists that the president would be preventing his own recovery if he attempted to answer the accumulated mail, which will be sent to Washington for Secretary Fumulty to answer.

The president's desire for privacy is now being ignored, and unless it is better respected he will go to Texas or Florida to complete his vacation.

Each day the State Agricultural College experiment station, made the president three dozen fresh eggs, and the parcel post brings quantities of fresh vegetables for the presidential household.

HE KILLS WIFE AND BABY—SAYS WIFE HAD DEVIL IN EYES

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Robert Maroney, aged 26, an actor, shot and killed his wife and daughter Frances as they slept in the hotel Walton. Maroney was arrested. He said when asked as to the motive for the murder: "I killed my wife because she had the devil in her eyes. The baby would have had the devil, too, if she had lived, so I killed her."

FARISS SEEKS TO COPIED STORIES SOLD THEM TO MAGAZINES

Engages Judge Wheaton Gray Capistrano Man Got $25 From in Effort to Keep Boy Munsey's for One of Everybody's Tales From the Gallows

BOY SAYS RENA HARRIS NOT "GIRL IN THE CASE"

Judge Craig to Hear Argument Saturday to Set Aside Death Sentence

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—James Fariss of Bakersfield arrived in Los Angeles yesterday to begin a fight to save the life of his son, Ralph Fariss, the young bandit who held up the southern Pacific train near El Monte and who shot and killed Horace E. Montague, an official of the railroad. After a pathetic meeting with his son, Mr. Fariss engaged Judge Wheaton A. Gray in the effort to save his son from the gallows. No definite method of procedure can be announced by Judge Gray until he examines the records of the case. Mr. Fariss himself says that it is his opinion that the young bandit was not in the full possession of his faculties when he took Montague's life, and it is possible that mental irresponsibility may form the basis for the effort to obtain commutation of the death sentence.

Girl in Case Not Found

Ralph Fariss denied today the printed statements that Rena Harris of Marion, Iowa, is the girl he lived with in San Francisco, and for whom he says he robbed trains to get money. He told a pitiful story in a cell today, declaring that the first "good woman," except his own family, that he had ever known was this 18-year-old girl, a divorcee he met in a Los Angeles dance hall; that he took her to San Francisco and she accompanied them. He paid up the fund which he robbed from trains. He insists that the girl was "good," and that he would have married her.

Superior Judge Craig has consented to hear arguments to set aside the death sentence he imposed last Saturday on young Fariss.

DYNAMITE BOAT STORY IS YET MYSTERY

Police Puzzled Over Richmond, Cal., Sensation—Three Men Arrested

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—San Francisco city and county police officers are aiding the Richmond police to solve the mystery of the dynamite boat found yesterday in San Pablo bay containing a dynamite bomb with a clock attachment set for 12:30 o'clock, three automatic revolvers, a shotgun, two rifles fitted with Maxim silencers, and a bag of gun cotton.

Three men were arrested in the boat, giving the names of Charles King, H. G. Hanton and Joseph Brown, who denied that they had planned a crime. The authorities are non-plussed and have been unable as yet to fix the nature of the expedition. Richmond police believe that at least one man in the party is an industrial worker of the world, and that he might have planned a "demonstration of force," or the blowing up of some structure.

Capistrano Man Got $25 From Munsey's for One of Everybody's Tales

NEW YORK ATTORNEYS KEPT THE WIRES HOT

Telegrapher Also an Author By Right of His Own Typewriter

Copying stories published in magazines years ago and selling them as his own production is a daring venture of a San Juan Capistrano telegrapher into the field of literature that promises to get him into hot water. Get him into hot water? He is already there.

The enterprising young "author" is R. L. Patterson, and he is telegraph operator and assistant Santa Fe agent at the mission town. He seems to have been enjoying considerable of a reputation in the historic valley as a writer of ability, and to have been keeping himself well supplied with coin of the realm to aid him in living up to his reputation.

The career of the "author" seems to have come to an end by reason of the discovery of Munsey's Magazine that a story bought by it last August from Patterson in a story published in Everybody's Magazine in 1900. Inquiry concerning Patterson began two or three weeks ago, when one of the local banks began to get wires from a firm of New York lawyers asking about Patterson. The bank had never heard of the genius.

Then District Attorney West began getting wires, and they came thick and fast. The district attorney's office did not know what was up. The New York attorneys evidently expected the district attorney's office to reach out in the dark and deliver Patterson's scalp to the aforesaid attorneys without the district attorney's office knowing what it was all about.

Three or four days ago there came an enlightening telegram concerning the writer Patterson of San Juan Capistrano. The New York attorneys' offices wanted to know the whereabouts of things. The enlightening telegram stated that Patterson of San Juan Capistrano had sold a story entitled "The Last Man of Boot Acre," to Munsey's publications last August, and that now another man declares that the story is his.

Deputies Koepsel and Eden went to San Juan Capistrano, and they inquired concerning Patterson. They found one young fellow who said that Patterson was sure some writer, as he had read several of his stories in manuscript and they were sure crack-brain stories. Also he had been shown a $100 check from some magazine received by Patterson.

Then Koepsel and Eden cruelly put it up to Patterson. They looked him in the eyes and asked him a few questions, and the truth all came out with hesitation on the part of Patterson.

Yes, he wrote "The Last Man of Boot Acre," that is he copied it word for word from a 1900 Everybody's, and he sent it to Munsey's, and they liked the story well enough to send him $25 for it.

The main idea from the story in Everybody's and rewrite a story around that idea," asked one of the deputies.

"Oh, no," said Patterson, "I copied it all."

"Did you use the same title that was used in the Everybody's story?" "Why, yes."

Patterson had taken the story, hide, horns and all—everything but the illustrations. The attorneys here are satisfied that Patterson's ability as an author rests on his ability to copy off a typewriter something that has been printed in a magazine.

NEW TOMB FOR POPE LEO

ROME, Dec. 29.—Negotiations between the Vatican and Quirinal for permission to transfer the remains of the late Pope Leo XIII. from St. Peter's to the new tomb in St. John Lateran are reported to have reached a satisfactory conclusion. The ceremony is expected to take place in February.

Adelaide N. Branch, "Heart Wife," She Says, of Monticello, N. Y., Lawyer for Ten Years

The death of Melvin H. Couch, lawyer and leading politician of Monticello, N. Y., a village which is supported largely by the tourist travel of health seekers from New York City, both in winter and summer, revealed one of the strangest romances. Such a situation would, in a work of fiction, have been passed by as too improbable.

For ten years the woman had lived in a small room off the lawyer's office, and did not go out more than once each year during that time. Three blocks away his wife and family lived in one of the finest houses of the village. No one even suspected her existence. He died suddenly of heart disease at 5 o'clock in the morning. The woman hurried out for a doctor, and then the story came forth. She told the police she was Couch's "heart wife," and now it is feared her situation may drive her to suicide.

TWO MEN DROWNED WHEN BOAT SWAMPED IN HEAVY SEAS AT DANA'S POINT

Ten Men Thrown Into Breakers Quarter Mile from Shore, Eight Reach Beach Alive

Following the swamping of a boat in the breakers at Dana's Point last night about dark, Leal McLaughlin of Newport Beach and George Hutchinson of Los Angeles were drowned.

Ten men were in the boat when it was swamped by the heavy seas about 400 yards from shore. All but two escaped. One, Thomas Maher, was saved by the boatmen.

The tragedy occurred after an afternoon spent in hunting abalones in the rocks along the beach. Seventeen of the twenty-seven in the party had returned to the launch Florence, on which the trip from Newport Beach to Dana's Point was made, when the last boatload started from the shore of the cove to the launch a half mile off shore. Nearly half the distance was covered when the boat went down.

The bodies of the two victims were recovered today and were taken in a launch from Laguna Beach to Newport Beach. Coroner Winbiger has gone to Newport Beach to take charge of the bodies.

It was 5:10 o'clock when the last boat left shore for the Florence, which stood off several hundred yards. The boat passed safely to the line of rocks, and went into breakers. It went through two lines of breakers, and the third broke on the bow. Before that every man in the boat was wet. With the third breaker, the boat listed, and in the white of the breaker filled instantly, and sank in the water beneath the men.

For those men who lived the next half to three-quarters of an hour was a most fearful time. The first instinct of each man was to jump clear of the boat. It is believed that Hutchinson alone endeavored to cling to the dory, and some of those who escaped are convinced he was struck by it on the head.

H. M. Patterson and Clyde Bishop dived under a wave to keep from being hit. Patterson's back was bared by the bottom of the boat.

The ten men in the boat were the three boatmen, Albert Duarte, Charles Swall and Frank Antonovich, and seven passengers. Leal McLaughlin, aged about 30, George Hutchinson, aged about 42, Attorney Clyde Bishop, Lem Stone, barber, H. M. Patterson, blacksmith, Thomas Maher and Miles Crego.

Those who could throw off their coats and sweaters. Bishop and McLaughlin started swimming together. Bishop was with McLaughlin until McLaughlin got hold of an oar, and then Bishop lost sight of him in the white of a breaker that went over them.

Maher seemed to be the weakest swimmer. He was soon calling for help, and Duarte and Swall took him in charge. They dragged him on to some rocks, over which the water was slashing, rested him for a few minutes, and then helped him to shore, where he arrived in bad condition.

CALUMET HAD MOURNFUL SUNDAY

Buried 59 Victims of Christ-Eve Disaster—Funerals Saturday and Today

INQUEST HELD TODAY: SITUATION WAS TENSE

Moyer Reported as Menaced By One of Wounds Received in Hancock Attack

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 29.—Striking miners and members of the Citizens Alliance jammed the room where an inquest was held today over the seventy-six deaths at Red Jacket in a Christmas Eve panic. The situation is tense. Sheriff Cruze was prepared for an emergency and held a strong force of deputies ready outside the building. The jury consisted of eight members: Six strikers and two businessmen, one being a strike sympathizer.

SEVENTY-SIX DEAD WERE BURIED YESTERDAY

CALUMET, Mich., Dec. 29.—Inexpressibly saddened, Calumet yesterday buried fifty-nine of the forms of tots, children, men and women who on Christmas Eve lost their lives in the panic-stricken Italian hall building during the progress of a Christmas tree entertainment for the little ones. Four of the victims were buried Saturday. Nine will be buried today, and fifty-nine were buried yesterday, making the total number of the victims seventy-two.

SHERIFF IGNORANT OF HOW MOYER LEFT THE DISTRICT

Sheriff James Cruze declares he can learn nothing as to how C. H. Moyer left this district and says nothing was known of his departure from Scott's hotel until the riot scene was sounded. He declares that for three weeks he had offered Moyer ample protection.

In Critical Condition

Moyer is said to be in a critical condition at St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago. An x-ray picture showed that the bullet which entered Moyer's back had traveled seven inches and lodged near the spine. It is in such a dangerous position that an operation seems hazardous.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—President Charles H. Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners, was operated upon at St. Luke's hospital today, a bullet being removed from the muscles of the left side of the back. The operation was pronounced a success by the surgeons, who issued the following bulletin: "Patient is weak, but we think he will come out all right."

Moyer was shot, he claims, during an attack by a mob at Hancock, Mich., where he was endeavoring to settle the copper miners' strike. A mob threw him aboard a train and threatened him with death if he returned.

Federation officials here have received word from Calumet that a motion picture film taken of Sunday's funeral of over seventy victims of the Red Jacket panic, was stolen within fifteen minutes after being delivered by the photographers. The strikers planned to exhibit the pictures throughout the country. The message said that Governor Ferris of Michigan said the state will care for their own labor troubles and that a government investigation is not wanted. The governor said he personally will not investigate the Moyer affair.

SCHMIDT VERDICT EXPECTED TONIGHT

Murderer of Anna Mueller in Collapse—Condition in Court Is Pitiable

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Hans Schmidt, slayer of Anna Amuller, collapsed in his cell before court convened today. His nerves appeared to be completely shattered, and his condition was pitiable when the trial was resumed.

His attorney, Oleott, made the closing address, reading extracts from the testimony of the alienists who declare Schmidt insane. The court gave each side one and one-half hours for arguments. It is understood that the court's instructions to the jury will be brief. A verdict is expected to be returned tonight.

AWAIT CLASS ON THE COURT

Orange is Going to Find Out Which of the two Teams Really Leads

(By Staff Correspondent.)
ORANGE, Dec. 29.—Local basketball fans are eagerly awaiting the clash Friday evening of the two local basketball teams, the Athletic Club and the high school, who will settle the city championship in a game at the Athletic Club.
The fight for supremacy has been going on for two weeks and the town is badly excited over it. Both teams have large followings and both sides are keenly partisan.
Two weeks ago the high school boys, who are in line for the county high school championship, surprised everyone by beating the Athletic Club team, which was just organizing. In

BRING ROSES IN TOMORROW

Orange County is Going to Have Pretty Float at Pasadena

Before noon tomorrow let there be bushels of roses at the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.
Every person who has even a half dozen pretty rose buds in the garden, cut those buds and add them to the roses that are to be used in decorating Orange County's float for the Tournament of Roses.
All roses must be on hand by noon. The committee that has charge of preparing the float will take the roses and consignees to Pasadena, where the float will be prepared.
The Orange Commercial Club has secured two boxes of fine oranges as its share of the oranges to be used on the float. They were picked with long stems, from the Irvine ranch at West Orange.
Roses should be cut with stems three inches or longer.
There is every indication that this county is going to have a splendid float. It will have if the residents of the county take interest enough to contribute plenty of fine roses.

The division to be taxed to pay the bonds is about half a mile of land on each side of the highway.

TERRAZAS FAMILY WOULD SAVE SON

Brother of Man Held By Villa to Act as Envoy for Father in Ransom Matter

EL PASO, Dec. 29.—To prevent his brother from being executed by Villa, Col. Alberto Terrazas, commander of the irregulars at Ojinaga, has resigned from the army and come here for the conference with his father, Gen. Luis Terrazas, before he goes to Chihuahua City to attempt to save the life of his brother, Louis Terrazas, Jr.

Col. Terrazas is the heir to the Terrazas millions and was governor of the state at one time. Learning of his brother's plight he hurried here and will insist upon going to Chihuahua to give himself up instead if Villa will not liberate Luis upon the payment of the $500,000 ransom which was demanded of his father.
Luis Terrazas, Jr., is in ill health and it is feared that he will die if confined in the prison longer. He was arrested by Villa when the rebels en-

CLARK JOLTS THE CONSPIRATORS

Champ Clark certainly hit out from the shoulder in a good cause when he left the speaker's chair the other day to reply to Minority Leader Mann, whose pessimism, for public consumption, has been as persistent as a sore toe.

After stating that while he disliked to say it, touching the declarations of the gentleman from Illinois and several other more or less eminent statesmen, made in the last week or so, as to the imminence of a panic, it seemed to him the wish was father to the thought. He continued:

"One swallow does not make a summer; but when you find the eminent senator from New York (Mr. Root), the eminent ex-speaker of this house, Mr. Cannon, the eminent ex-governor of Missouri, Mr. Hadley, the eminent gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Mann), and the eminent chairman of the Republican national committee, Mr. Hill, all giving out the same kind of a statement in less than a week, all on the same identical line, I do not believe I exceed the bounds of propriety or of fact when I state that it appears like a Republican conspiracy against the prosperity of the country. Of course, there are minor ones who chip in, but they do not count. It is to be hoped that their predictions of disaster to the country will fail."

Mr. Clark might easily and safely have included in his charge of conspiracy many members of his own and other parties—not necessarily of the House or Senate—for while the more conspicuous conspirators in this respect are Republicans all Republicans are not conspirators and all conspirators are not Republicans.

That there is a conspiracy to alarm the public and array it against all progressive legislation no matter whence it may emanate there can be but little doubt.

WRONG BOTH WAYS

If it be indeed true that President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners was deported from Calumet by the Citizens' Alliance because his retraction and apology for a statement derogatory to the Alliance was not satisfactory to the Alliance committee, then the Citizens' Alliance has been guilty of a crime quite as idiotic as that of which Moyer himself was guilty when he prevented the bereaved families from accepting aid from the relief committee.

The action of Moyer himself in first giving credence and publicity to the unthinkable rumor that an emissary of the Citizens' Alliance had raised the cry of fire at the Christmas celebration where so many children were killed, and in prohibiting the acceptance of relief from any source except his own union, stamps him as an utterly impossible person, wholly unfit for responsible leadership. If a great tragedy is not a sufficient occasion to lay aside class hatreds and to meet on a ground of common humanity, then human nature is no longer to be trusted. The real compensation for this terrible tragedy ought to have been a meeting of representatives of the two sides, first for the relief of the suffering, and second, for the settlement of the strike on a basis of human consideration of the rights of both sides. Apparently Moyer on his side was not above the fiendish insanity of utilizing it, instead, as fuel for the flames of class hatred among an ignorant and excited people.

But this very bad human situation is made much worse if, for the offense of impertinence, Moyer is illegally deported from the community. This is merely to substitute the arbitrary tyranny of the Citizens' Alliance class for the arbitrary tyranny of the Moyer class. If the purpose is thereby to secure the good will of the members of Moyer's own class the action is imbecile beyond comprehension. It is to be hoped that investigation will show that the reports of the enforced deportation of Moyer are unfounded. Moyer was long ago correctly stigmatized as an undesirable citizen. But an undesirable citizen is not made more despicable by the use of lawless force to deprive him of the rights which belong to all citizens, even undesirable ones.

The use of force by the Citizens' Alliance class against Moyer would deprive the members of that class of any right to criticize the use of force by Moyer's class against them. If the parties to labor disputes cannot comprehend that any act which is wrong on one side is also wrong on the other, then there is little hope for the continuance of free government in this country.—Fresno Republican.

NOT BEAUTY, NOT BRAINS, BUT HORSE-POWER THAT WINS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—It's not beauty or brains that count with the girls who are printers' assistants in the big government bureau of printing and engraving. Horsepower is what the government wants. And that's what the investigation of physical requirements now under way is seeking to determine. How much horsepower must a girl possess to get away with the job of printer's assistant. Director Ralph has experts puzzling over this problem—and when the solution is at hand the girls will be selected like machines.

EDISON'S 18-HOUR WORKDAY NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Thomas A. Edison, now fully recovered from his illness, is again hard at work every day in his laboratory in West Orange, N. J. He keeps busy eighteen hours a day and sleeps on his cot at the shop, instead of going home. It is believed he, Mrs. Edison and their three children will go to their winter home at Fort Meyer, Fla., in February, to remain there until spring.

"Look out, and not in; look up and not down; look forward and not back; and lend a hand."

THERE'S a good motto for all of us for the New Year. We're not sure that the quotation is exactly correct; but we've got the general idea there; Edward Everett Hale said it. It's a good motto for men in business; for women in the home or in business, for all of us in our relations to each other. We're trying to carry out that idea in this clothing business. It is shown by having here the most forward, upward, outward looking clothes made; the best and most advanced styles; the most perfect tailoring; the most worthy fabrics. They're clothes that will help a man look and feel like that motto.

The Income Tax Law

Although the Register has heretofore published a full digest of the income tax law, the following communication from Senator Anderson will no doubt prove interesting and instructive:

Editor Register, Santa Ana, Cal. Dear Sir:—Having had occasion to turn my attention to the income tax feature of the new tariff law, and knowing how inconvenient it is for the general public to obtain any intelligent understanding of such new laws, I thought well of asking you to publish for your readers a few references.

I do not attempt to write a synopsis of all the provisions of the law, as it is quite lengthy, but only of such as may affect the large majority of those liable to a tax and as indicate those who are liable at all.

First—Every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad, and every person residing in the United States, though not a citizen, is liable to a tax upon the entire net income arising or accruing from all sources, in the preceding calendar year, and all persons residing elsewhere, upon the entire income from all property, real and personal, owned, from every business, trade or profession carried on in the United States.

Second—The tax on an income not exceeding $20,000 is called the "normal tax," and the rate is one per cent on such amount, after subtracting the deductions hereinafter mentioned. On all incomes exceeding $20,000 a further tax is levied, called the "additional tax," and scaled as follows:

Exceeding $20,000 and not exceeding $50,000, 1 per cent; $50,000 and not exceeding $75,000, 2 per cent; $75,000 and not exceeding $100,000, 3 per cent; $100,000 and not exceeding $250,000, 4 per cent; $250,000 and not exceeding $500,000, 5 per cent; $500,000, 6 per cent.

(Let us hope there are a goodly number in Orange County liable under the above table.)

Third—In computing net income for the purpose of the "normal tax," the following deductions are allowed:

(a) $3000 for all persons, with an additional $1000 to a married man or a married woman, but the said $1000 cannot be deducted by both husband and wife; and provided that the $4000 shall be deducted from the aggregate income of both husband and wife.

(b) Expenses paid in carrying on any business, not including living or family expenses.

(c) Interest paid on indebtedness.

(d) Taxes.

(e) Losses incurred in trade or by the elements.

(f) Worthless debts due.

(g) Reasonable allowance for wear and tear on property, but no deductions for permanent improvements.

themselves to be liable to income tax, try and get a pamphlet copy of the law from the collector at Los Angeles, or from one of our representatives in congress.

AMUSEMENTS

Those who would like to enjoy a splendid evening of music on the last night of the year should be sure to attend the concert by Byron's Troubadours at the Opera House this coming Wednesday evening. It is under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. and is the second number on the entertainment course. Tickets for the course as well as for this number are on sale at Rowley's Drug Store.

The following clipping will be of interest:

Evening Herald, Durango, Colo., October 19, 1912.—The Troubadours are from Chicago and know how to please an audience. They were strong on the use of instruments, of which they had a great variety. Many there were who had never heard some of the instruments employed last night. They possess rare talent both in instrumental and vocal music. The variation of voices and the blending of the sounds of the various instruments seemed to take the audience through the repeated encores given the Troubadours. This troupe of musicians are having splendid success in pleasing their audiences throughout the country and the Durango people today are loud in their praises of the success of the entertainment at the Red Men hall last night.

EVERYTHING FIRST-CLASS AT CLUNE'S THEATER

The management of Clune's Santa Ana Theater is always on the look-out for all that is first-class in both moving pictures and vaudeville, and the people of this city, wishing to show their appreciation of the management's efforts, crowd both houses at the evening performances. There are two complete changes of vaudeville and four complete changes of pictures each week. For tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week there will be three excellent acts, including a Christmas sketch by Michael Sullivan & Company entitled "Mabel's Santa Claus." This should appeal to everyone, especially at this time of the year. Five reels of pictures are announced, which will include a two-reel feature, "Daniel in the Lion's Den."

This theater is equipped with an up-to-date heating system, which insures a warm and cosy atmosphere throughout the evening's performance.

HAPPY FAMILY REUNION

Christmas Joy for Hight Family—Bride and Groom Present at Celebration

Among the many happy Christmas family reunions held in Santa Ana was one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hight at Seventeenth and Newport Roads. All of their children and grandchildren who could possibly attend were present.

Their daughter Miss Grace Hight, who graduated from Boston University last year and who is now taking a year of post graduate work in U. S. C. was there, as well as Mr. Percy Hight, a graduate of the University of California, who is now practicing law at Long Beach.

The occasion was rendered especially joyous by the return of Mr. Percy Hight and his young bride, nee Miss Maree Gillespie from their bridal tour to San Francisco and other parts of Northern California.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hight, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hight, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James P. Hight, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hight, Miss Grace Hight, Mr. Reginald Hight, Miss Ruth Hight, and Miss Helen Hight.

Woman's Club Meeting

The fifth Tuesday of any month during which the Woman's Club holds meetings, is always appropriated for a social meeting. Tomorrow's meeting, falling on the fifth Tuesday of December, will accordingly be given over to purely social purposes. A program has been arranged and the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Rowland, 1306 North Broadway.

A very happy afternoon is anticipated at this closing meeting of the club for 1914.

Notice to Ebell Members

The president of the Ebell Society of the Santa Ana Valley requests the Ebell members who have roses of any color and are willing to donate the same for decorating Orange county's float for Pasadena Tournament of Roses, to take or send them to the Chamber of Commerce rooms tomorrow.

Rehearsal Postponed

Owing to the inability of a number of the members of the Philharmonic Society to be present this week, the rehearsal which was called for tomorrow night is postponed for one week. The regular work of the society will then continue and the members are respectfully requested to attend regularly as the work of the society will otherwise be materially hindered.

At the Catlands

Alfred and Irene Catland on Saturday night entertained a small party of young people in a most informal way. Games and music were enjoyed in the first part of the evening, then a "josh" Christmas tree furnished amusement. Those spending the evening with

CHRISTMAS SERVICES

First Baptist Church Choir Gave "Star of Bethlehem" Cantata Most Successfully

The Christmas services of the First Baptist church, postponed till yesterday and held at the College of Music, attracted large audiences both morning and afternoon. At the morning service held at the usual hour for church services, the following program was given most excellently:

Prelude, "Melodie" (Massenet); Doxology and Invocation; hymn; baritone solo, "Nazareth" (Gounod); Mr. Thomas Gowan, responsive reading; violin solo, "Andante Movement from Mendelssohn's Concerto, Opus 64"; Miss Lalla Fagge, antem, "White Shepherds Watched" (Spence); solos by Misses Balam and Havens and Mr. Hixcox; Scripture lesson; prayer and response; offertory; soprano solo, "In Bethlehem, of Judea" (Benjamin-Lusk); Miss Irene Balam; sermon by the pastor, Rev. O. S. Russell; hymn; postlude, "Etude in D Minor" (A. Krause). The solo song by Miss Balam was written and composed by Messrs. Benjamin and Lusk.

The principal feature of the afternoon service held at 3:30 o'clock was Harker's beautiful Cantata, "The Star of Bethlehem," sung by a chorus of sixteen voices, with Miss Balam, soprano; Miss Marie Havens, contralto; W. A. Benjamin, tenor, and L. P. Hixcox, baritone, as soloists. The chorus singing was splendidly done, and was immensely appreciated by the audience that packed the building. The soloists were in wonderfully good voice and sang their various numbers beautifully.

Another leading feature of the afternoon was the reading by Rev. Otto S. Russell of "The Glorious Dawn," a lovely Christmas poem. The poem, finely interpreted by the reader, is the composition of W. A. Benjamin, that versatile musician who seems as much at home in poetry as in the realm of music. The revelation of Mr. Benjamin's poetic talent was a surprise to the majority of the audience, and congratulations were heaped on the writer at the conclusion of the entertainment.

Other pleasing features of the afternoon's exercises were the opening prelude, Nocturne, Opus 9, No. 2 (Chopin) by Mr. Lusk; a baritone solo, Neidlinger's "The Birthday of a King," splendidly rendered by Lloyd Sharp; the offertory number, Nevin's "Miserere," and the congregational singing of "Gloria Patri" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" (Mendelssohn).

Those in the Cantata chorus were: Sopranos—Miss Irene Balam, Mrs. Frank Harris, Miss Blanche Minter, Mrs. Bessie Meyer, Miss Amy Bent; Altos—Miss Marie Havens, Miss Cecelia Graham, Miss Josephine Alexander; Basses—Lou P. Hixcox, and Tenors—W. A. Benjamin, L. W. VanCleave, Charles Deaver, Merle Charles S. Williams, Verne Williamson, Elmer Thompson.

Percy Lusk was at the organ, doing the work after only two days' practice. Mrs. Shaw, nee Ruth Dearford, was the organist during all the rehearsals, excepting the last two, but was prevented from playing for the final production by serious eye trouble. She had given faithful service to the perfecting of the production and was disappointed over being unable to continue.

THE GLORIOUS DAWN

(Written by William Augustus Benjamin and read by Rev. Otto S. Russell at the Christmas exercises given Sunday afternoon, Dec. 28, 1913, at the College of Music, by the First Baptist church and Sunday school.)

The earth is hushed and peace
Envelops the universe.
The purple mantle of the night hangs low
Twixt earth and sky—
As darkness, slowly creeping from the hill-tops,
Sinks into the vales—yet still retreats,
And from the advance of swift approaching dawn
Flees, and is lost
In the unbounded shadows
Of the past.

Around o'er all the land
Deep silence reigns;
The stars of heav'n still brightly gleam
O'er western plains.

The moments pass with slow but steady beat;
The dawn is drawing near;
The balmy winds that, zephyr-like,
Lulled all the world to rest on yesterday eve,
Are hushed;
No sound falls on the listening ear.

Then, lo! Behold!
What glory is't that breaks the pall of gloom,
And, mingling with the faint and trembling light
Of the awakening day,
Throws halos round the everlasting hills?

What sweet-voiced songs float on the ambient air
From far away!
What shouts of triumph, piercing the greatest heights,
And deepest depths,
The slumbering universe enraptures!

Aurora's crimson rays bedeck the sky,
And through the dim, departing shadows
Gleams a radiant star;
The incandescent shafts of light
That from it stream
Herald the morn,
And tell to wanderers near and far,
The Christ is born!

The night is almost gone,
Pale, golden beams of dawn,
Like swift bolts from the cross-bow flung,
Shatter the gloom;
And through the shadows of the early hour,
Echoes of music from celestial choirs
Break the deep silence of Earth's nightly tomb.

Upon the hills whose towering heights,
Encircled by the crowning glory of the morning sun,
Greet the new-born day—
Watching their flocks,
The shepherds lie;
The star serene,
Undimmed by morn's approaching light,
Still floats above;

While to their ears come sounds of harps,
And joyful songs,
Cleaving the sky,
Nature awakes!
And as the light grows brighter,
To the shepherds' wondering gaze
God's messenger appears,
And with him comes a mighty host,
With cymbals ringing and with lutes
Full strung;

A song of triumph breaks
Upon the world, and fleet-winged
Speed they through the aisles of space,
Bearing the wondrous message
Unto every nation's ear;
While through the valleys of Judea,
In jubilation ringing,
Is heard the hallelujah songs
Of myriad angels singing.

Now, through the hazy light of dawn
The wise men come:
The Magi, from far eastern lands;
Their "desert-ships," with lengthened stride
Swift speeding o'er the barren sands;
Bringing fair treasures, myrrh and spices sweet,
They come the new-born King to greet;
To lay their homage at his feet.

Beneath the effulgence of the wondrous star,
On Bethlehem's hill
They find him
Cradled in manger where the cattle feed;
The Saviour—King of Glory!

And then again, from God's eternal throne,
This glorious day,
The angels rise on rapid wing and sweep
Out into space—
Away, away—
To sing aloud the great redemption song
Of love, and joy, and peace to all,
This first glad Christmas morn.

And onward, ever onward,
Unceasingly will roll
Adown the corridors of time,
And out into the boundless
Spaces of eternity,
A mighty song of rapture:
"Glory to God in the highest,
On earth peace;
Good will to men!"

TASMAN ASHORE--- NORDICA ABOARD

Steamships Called to Aid by Wireless—Ship on Shore of Gulf of Papua

BRISBANE, Australia, Dec. 29.—If the weather remains calm, the Dutch steamship Tasman, now on the rocks in Bramble Bay, Gulf of Papua, with many prominent Americans among her passengers, will be refloated safely, according to a wireless message to Thursday Island, sent thence by cable to Cooktown, and telegraphed to Brisbane. The message said, however, that heavy weather would mean disaster. Help is en route but it is not known how near.

Among the Americans aboard are former Governor Alva Adams of Colorado and Mrs. Adams; Major Sydney C. Loman, chief of the San Francisco exposition military affairs, and Mrs. C. Loman; Chief Thomas Stallsmith of the San Francisco exposition's agricultural department, and Mrs. Stallsmith. Other passengers are Lillian Nordica and Madame Carel. The Tasman was bound from Sydney to Batavia.

TASMAN SENT WIRELESS MESSAGE FOR AID
BRISBANE, Australia, Dec. 29.—A dispatch from Thursday Island says that the Dutch liner Tasman, bound from Sydney, N. S. W., for Java, is ashore in a dangerous position in Bramble bay, gulf of Papua.

There are many passengers aboard the Tasman, including Mme. Nordica, the singer, and the Panama-Pacific exposition commissioners, Adams and Stallsmith. The Tasman sent a wireless message to Thursday Island telling of the peril. Steamships have left to give assistance.

The point where the Tasman went ashore is in Torres strait, between the northernmost part of Australia and New Guinea. Thursday Island is in the same locality.

AT THE COURT HOUSE

TRIPLETS FOR ANOTHER $100

They Put Three in a Row for County Clerk Williams to Look At
He Admits They Are Worth All the Supervisors Will Give Them

Tomorrow morning when the Board of Supervisors meets another set of triplets is going to demand attention. About two weeks ago the board voted $100 to the three Summers triplets, born on the San Joaquin ranch, four or five weeks ago, and the story got out that the supervisors had intended to make a standing reward for triplets, provided that they be all boys or all girls.

The Summers trio are all boys, and now there cometh forward three girls, born at East Anaheim two years ago, and their parents feel quite certain that three such fine girls are worthy of being rewarded. And no doubt they are. Saturday they brought the three little girls in to County Clerk Williams' office and placed them on the counter, three in a row. They were dressed alike and they looked alike.

Williams did not quite grasp what the visitation meant, so he volunteered: "They certainly do look alike."

"They are triplets, and they are after the county's reward," said Mr. Baker. Then Williams tumbled.

"That will be up to the Board of Supervisors," he said. "I do not understand that any standing reward was offered, but that the $100 was voted as assistance in an emergency. However, it is up to the board, so bring them back Tuesday."

"They told Williams what each tot's name was.

"If you let me put marks on each of them, I will know which name belongs to each girl," said he. "Otherwise I'll have to refer to them as the girl triplets."

N. Anderson have reported that they appraise the estate of Carrie Von Braun, who died in Iowa several years ago, at $6,000. It is acreage property.

Mechanic's Lien
Max L. Hubermann, the street paver, has recorded a mechanic's lien on property belonging to Mrs. Susan L. Allyn, on a demand for $200.

TWO MEN DROWNED WHEN BOAT SWAMPED

dared not hang onto the boat, which was tossing and lurching in the waves dangerously, and to attempt to hang onto it might mean a death blow. So far as known every man struck out for shore.

Clyde Bishop, who was one of those thrown into the water, remembers seeing McLaughlin in the water swimming strongly and headed for the beach. No one knows when he disappeared nor why. Of Hutchinson there seems to be no account further than that he failed to make shore.

Duarte and Swall, fishermen and strong swimmers, helped Tommy Maher, who was nearly exhausted. Maher was brought ashore in bad shape. He was the eighth man to land.

Fires were built up and the men huddled about them to get warm and dry their clothing. The three fishermen watched for signs of McLaughlin and Hutchinson, but saw nothing of them.

The men on the launch were helpless. They knew that an accident had occurred, but did not know whether or not anyone was drowned. In the darkness they had made out the boat as it left shore, and by the yells that came across the angry sea to them they knew that the men were thrown into the water. There was no row boat at the launch, and the launch was as close to shore as it dared go.

After waiting for some time they saw the fires lighted on shore and could see men moving about them. A conference was held, and the captain decided to put back to Newport Beach, and the trip to that place was made in all possible haste. Arriving there the seventeen men aboard tried their best to get news, but they learned nothing. Attempts were made to get San Juan Capistrano on the telephone, but those efforts failed.

In the meantime Duarte had walked from the cove to the Buchheim ranch-house at Serra, at the point where the road leaves the valley to go up on the mesa that reaches as far westward as Dana's Point. From Buchheim's a telephone message was sent to Under Sheriff Law at Santa Ana, and Law went in his automobile to the place.

Law took five men into his machine and returned with them to Santa Ana. Duarte and Swall remained at the beach to patrol it, hoping to find the bodies of the two drowned men.

From Newport Beach there arrived an automobile load of men who had been on the launch. They were going to get other machines and go to Dana's Point, but before they could get started Law arrived with the five shipwrecked men, and then, for the first time the anxious men who were safe on the launch learned the extent of the catastrophe and who were lost. Word was immediately dispatched to Newport Beach, where anxious relatives and friends were waiting helplessly for news from the missing men.

Waited in Vain
When the Florence reached Newport Beach, on the dock was Mrs. McLaughlin waiting for her husband. For two or three hours she had been there, vaguely fearing that an accident had happened. She was told that the last boatload had not started from shore. The men on the launch did not know how many, if any, were drowned, and they did not want to tell the woman that possibly her husband was dead. The couple were married but a short time ago. McLaughlin was well-to-do, and had been living at the beach for some time.

It is understood that Hutchinson was also married.

Bishop's Story
Bishop at his office today is sore from head to foot from bruises and scratches received on the rocks. He says it was 4:30 when the abalone rocks were left, and the return to camp made. Two boat loads were taken off, leaving seven passengers on shore. It was 5:10 o'clock and dark when the last load started from shore.

"I sat at the rear of the boat," said Bishop, "and when the boat filled I shoved myself off into the water backward. I saw the boat coming down on me, and I dived and saved myself. I got off my coat and sweater and struck out for shore. I recognized McLaughlin and was with him when he got hold of an oar.

I think I was the first man ashore. All the rest landed on sand, but I was pounded on the rocks. The first thing I did was to throw a lot of boxes on the fire to give light. I think it was fully a quarter of a mile that we had to swim.

"I want to tell you that not one of those boatmen had a bit of yellow in them. They behaved like men every second of the time. Duarte and Swall saved Tommy Maher's life, no question about it."

Patterson's Escape
Patterson of Newport Beach had a close shave. When he dived the boat came down on his back, but the water broke the blow. Today the man has a lame back, but at the time he hardly noticed the blow. He is a strong swimmer, but swallowed a lot of salt water that sickened him, and for a few minutes he thought he would never make shore.

After the men gathered around the campfire, Duarte and Crego started east alongshore for help. Much of the way they had to crawl over rocks on lands and knees. They finally reached a lobster camp, and Duarte returned with a wagon and lanterns, and took the men to Serra. Crego had gone on to Aaron Buchheim's and had telephoned to the sheriff.

Tommy Maher was put to bed at Clapp's camp at Serra, and was left there.

This morning two automobile loads of men left Newport Beach for San Juan Point, also called Dana's Point, to help search for the bodies. They carried strong glasses, and hope from

RAILROAD RATE MAKING IS THEME

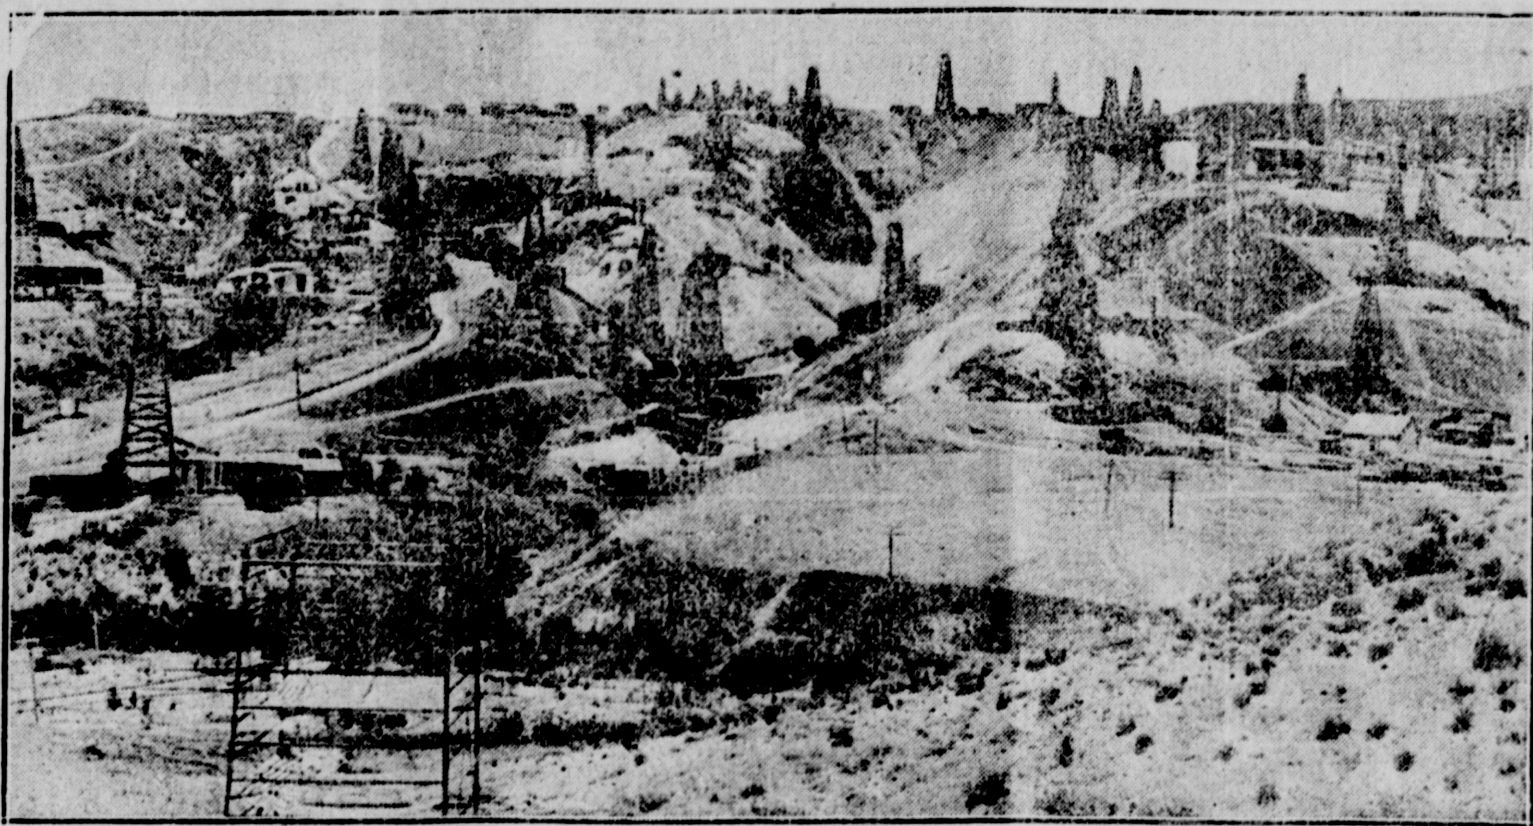

Commerce Commissioner Meyer Says New Valuation Systems Will Soon Be Used

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 29.—The axiom that it was "more important that justice be achieved in a large way than that some specific standard shall be promulgated and adhered to under all conditions" was laid down by Interstate Commerce Commissioner U. H. Meyer today in discussing railway rate making before the American Economic Association.

"As long as rival individuals engage in trade, offering to rival consumers the same or competing commodities the railway rate problem will continue to exist," he said. "The present system of private ownership and system of regulating may give way to different systems of regulations and these in turn may be superseded by a system of public ownership, but none of these will terminate rate controversy."

Value of property, Commissioner Meyer said, was perhaps the most important single factor, now unknown, which in the future will enter into the consideration of railway rates. In the past, volume and market value of outstanding securities were submitted as evidence of the value of property to support a rate or a rate structure under attack, the speaker declared. In the future, he said, after the physical valuation had been accomplished, outstanding securities against the valued property should receive no consideration whatever in the establishment of rates to be collected for the public use of that property.

The speaker declared that cost of service, at present neglected, will be employed much more in the future. He said that cost systems had been applied to every important branch of industry except steam engineering. Discussing public policy as a factor in shaping railway rates, the commissioner denounced the fixing of rates solely with a view to meeting the real or supposed needs of different patrons

OIL WELLS AT TUXPAM, MEXICO, NOW UNDER CONTROL OF REBELS

Control of the territory about the oil wells of Tuxpam, Mex., has made it possible for the rebels to prevent the operation of the National Railways of Mexico, and thus shut up the oil wells of the American companies.

The rebel commanders plainly told the managers of the companies operating these wells that they must not ship to the railway company, locomotives of which they had burned. If they did the wells would be blown up. Despite contracts for the delivery of oil for fuel on the railways the plants had to cease shipments.

Since then the troops of Huerta have not been able to operate in the northern part of Mexico. One result, it was said, was the evacuation of Chihuahua, one of the richest cities of the north, and the march of more than 2,000 troops and citizens across the desert to the American boundary. The oil wells about Tuxpam are among the richest in the world. In fact, it is considered by oil experts that within a few years the wells on the east coast of Mexico will be depended on for the larger part of the world's supply. At this time the immense properties are owned by the company controlled by Lord Cowdray, the Rockefeller, and H. Clay Pierce. The district, after the settlement of peace in Mexico, is likely to be the scene of one of the biggest booms the world has known.

MARIE MONTESSORI GIVES FUNDAMENTALS OF SYSTEM

Says Teacher Is Merely Director of the Activities of Mind, Body and General Temperament

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Dr. Maria Montessori, the great Italian educator of children, who comes to this country to teach her system for the uplift of the human race through the medium of consistent education, told the United Press of her aims and ambitions of the fundamental phases of her methods. Miss Anne E. George, director of the work for the Montessori Educational Association in America, interpreted for the educator who does not speak English.

"No system of education can be told in a few words or in a few hundred words," said Dr. Montessori. "I have told of my method in my books and yet I find that the same thing must be told over and over again in different words to fit different cases with which I have to deal. I might say that my method is one which leads the child to teach himself. The teacher is not a teacher—merely a director of the activities of the child's mind, body and general temperament so as to bring out the things which are naturally within the child but not brought out by the average system of education."

"Liberty of the child is another very fundamental thing. In my school the little ones are free to pursue their own best natural inclinations. The fostering of spontaneity in the child is another great factor which must be recognized with."

"The normal child who grows to be the normal man or woman is the individual who in this world has had the least attention. Science has done much for the sick in body and mind. Science has done within it a great truth, a great force, and society has responded by honoring science. On the other hand, the common school, which should have long ago received the attention of modern science, has done nothing for normal life and consequently society does not honor the teacher nor give close attention to the preparation of teachers."

"It was through the deficient and abnormal children that I first learned my great lessons about the teaching of childhood. I taught my poor unfortunate little ones and found that liberty, opportunities for spontaneous activity and freedom from the restraint of ignorant elders were working wonders. My deficient children were advancing along the road to knowledge faster than the normal children in the ordinary schools. Why not set free the normal by the same method, I thought."

"Medical inspection of schools has rendered the school nurse inevitable," declares Dr. Ernest Bryant Hoag in a bulletin on "Organized Health Work," just issued by the United States Bureau of Education.

"Without an effective follow-up service conducted by visiting nurses, medical inspection is ineffective. Until 1908 New York City relied upon postal cards sent to parents of defective children, and was able to secure action in only six per cent of the cases where treatment was recommended. Immediately upon placing the follow-up service in the hands of

"Since then I have studied the normal child with results which have surprised me. I took simple means. I offered stimuli from the outside material to quicken their selection of things which they studied of their own volition and soon discovered that the child, left alone and untrammelled upon the limiting surroundings and the modern paraphernalia of public schools would soon teach himself to do things which he would not learn in four times the number of weeks in the ordinary school."

"Our scientists have never had the attitude of humility toward the normal child which they have displayed toward the smallest germs on their microscope slides. The greatest doctor goes humbly to the bedside of the sick child but not to the side of its normal brother. This is why we have not succeeded in penetrating scientifically into the knowledge of the normal man. Christ, when he taught the science of life, the way of life, taught humility as its first principle, and said, 'He who would be master of all must be servant of all, and he who would be master must serve.'"

"It was thus that I tried to approach the task which I had set for myself. I found that teachers in the public schools often pour a flood of words presenting various phases of the subject on the confused pupil. It was my belief that, with simplicity, children would learn the same things more clearly and with less effort and loss. It was my intention to analyze in order that the child might receive his perceptions clearly and concisely."

"My attitude was to be that of a scientist. I was not coming to teach them. I came with the order of the scientist who desires to come upon the spontaneous manifestations of life and to assign to them their proper value."

"So in the children's houses the teacher serves and waits upon life. She does not teach."

"And so the time came, with myself, when I arrived at the point where I lost all desire to carry on scientific research or to compile the reports of my experiments. It was as if I had found a secret garden, a palace of peace, in which I only wanted to live with these children and to enjoy their development."

"Scientific language became revolting to me. It seemed inadequate when I wished to describe the manifestations which were taking place about me. I wished to speak of it in terms of religion."

SCHOOL NURSE FOUND NECESSARY TO MAINTAIN CHILDREN'S HEALTH

school nurses the percentage increased to 84.

"The nurse effects what no other agency could accomplish. She not only secures action in the case at hand, but she becomes a permanent advisory influence in the homes where she visits."

"By virtue of her room-to-room visitation and her opportunities for observation, the school nurse also becomes the ideal sanitary inspector. She notes temperatures, ventilation, seating, cleanliness of room, toilets, blackboards, and the clothes of children. Her hospital standards of sani-

The OPTIMISM of SAVING

Notwithstanding the drought which affected part of the middle west last summer, it is said that a feeling of optimism pervades that section largely because the people there in the last ten years of remarkable prosperity have laid aside some savings for a time of stress—in the fat years have prepared for lean ones.

You personally will have reason to be an optimist if you steadily build up a 4 per cent savings account in the Orange County Savings & Trust Company.

BEACH CITY FEUD BREAKS OUT ANGRILY

Arrests Made on Both Sides and Talk of Dire Things
Follows

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 29.—Former Trustee David S. Stewart, recognized head of one faction in this city, and City Marshal E. L. Vincent, said to be backed by the other faction, are again in the limelight because of a Christmas night dance held here at which Stewart was arrested by the city marshal and his deputy, his son, Raleigh Vincent.

Stewart is charged with being drunk and disorderly, and a few hours later—Friday afternoon—the two Vincents were arrested by Deputy Constable H. E. Linden, on a warrant sworn out by Stewart in Justice J. W. Shirley's court in this city, charging both the marshal and his deputy with using boisterous language, seeking to disturb the peace by fighting Stewart and otherwise behaving in a manner unseemly in a peace officer. The preliminary hearing of Stewart before City Recorder Moore was set for Monday morning and that of the Vincents before Justice Shirley for Tuesday morning. Shirley and Vincent are old-time enemies, too, and the city marshal will seek a change of venue.

The affair is now town talk and promises to become the subject of

BOMBARDIER WELLS INTRODUCES NEW TRAINING STUNT

Bombardier Wells, the champion of Great Britain, introduced a new training stunt in preparation for his fight with Georges Carpentier before the National Sporting Club in London. He got four pretty good boxers and had them stand in front of him at one time for his boxing exercise. He had them go after him one after the other, repelling one with all the cleverness and speed he possessed—and despite the fact that Wells was knocked out by Al Palzer and Gunboat Smith here he was acknowledged heated arguments by partisans of both sides. In fact, some persons seem to think that it will not stop at verbal warfare, in making the arrest of the city marshal the deputy to be a very fine boxer—he had the next man jump for him. In this way he was able to take on two men, or even four, during three minutes, and was thus forced to work much faster than those boxers who take on the same sparring partner for two or three rounds before changing to a fresh man.

The four men facing Wells in the illustration were Stoker Smith, Sid Wells, Pat O'Keefe and Alf Wells. Of these Pat O'Keefe is well known in the United States. He was brought here several years ago by Charley Harvey, now secretary of the New York State Boxing Commission. Pat was sent against the best middleweight of the country, and was invariably beaten. The best that could be said of him was that he was absolutely game. It is doubtful if even Wells, who hits pretty hard, has a punch good enough to put Pat out.

Wells' method may be adopted by fast American boxers. It certainly would add to the speed of such men as Packie McFarland and Willie Ritchie, though they are pretty fast now.

interesting by the fact that the two are also personal enemies. Stewart's friends are threatening to do dire things and Vincent's friends are equally belligerent.

WISE COLLIE SAVED

FULLERTON MAN'S LIFE

Fullerton News: Returning to Fullerton with a glad-to-be-home feeling, in company with a small female collie dog, to whom he owes his life, Harley Brewer, who, in company with Mr. Miller, of the candy kitchen, left this city the 29th day of last July for a trip overland in a covered wagon to Denver, Colorado, on Thursday afternoon, having left the trail at Fallside, Nevada. Mr. Miller, whose health is considerably improved, remained in Phoenix, Arizona. Harley is looking well and says he had a delightful trip, and that it would take columns to relate the many incidents which happened on the trip. But one of the most thrilling, in which the collie dog played an important part, and the little animal proved a friend in need, was when Mr. Brewer was thrown from his horse, which started on a run, dragging him along the ground, his foot having become entangled in the stirrup. The dog, realizing that something was wrong, and having been taught to lead the horse to water by the bride, made a jump for the horse's head, grabbing the bride, and held on tenaciously until the horse came to a stand when Mr.
Brewer extricated himself from his perilous position, slightly disfigured, but still in the ring, and this is why the collie has found a home in Fullerton and a warm spot in its master's heart.

RAISE THE LIMIT

WEIGHT OF PARCELS

ACCEPTED FOR MAIL

Postmaster General Burleson has issued orders to postmasters for changes to be made in the parcel post system on Jan. 1, 1914. Order
No. 7796 follows:

"On and after January 1, 1914, the limit of weight of parcels of fourth-class mail for delivery within the first and second zones shall be increased from 20 to 50 pounds and in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth zones from 11 to 20 pounds.

"The rate of postage on parcels exceeding 4 ounces in weight in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth zones shall be as follows:

"Third Zone—Six cents for the first pound and two cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

"Fourth Zone—Seven cents for the first pound and four cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

"Fifth Zone—Eight cents for the first pound and six cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof.

"Sixth Zone—Nine cents for the first pound and eight cents for each additional pound or fraction thereof."

In instructions to the postmasters is the following:

"At the same time you should point out the advantages of the parcel post system as a cheap, expeditious, and efficient means for the transportation of parcels of merchandise, farm and factory products, and miscellaneous articles, inviting attention to the insurance and C. O. D. features, particularly the low insurance fees.
You should also emphasize the necessity for properly preparing articles for mailing in order that they may be easily examined and withstand the handling to which they are subjected in transit and delivery, and reach their destination in good condition.

ULM'S $5,000 INSURANCE IS PAID MRS. ULM

Check for $46.90 Premium Was Sent Day Before He Took His Life

Today W. L. Duggan, local agent of the New York Life Insurance Company, received a check for $5,000 from that company made payable to Nellie J. Ulm, widow of N. A. Ulm, who took his own life on November 19. Accompanying the check was a letter and two inclosures. The letter stated that the policy was in force at the time of Ulm's death on the term extension clause, although Ulm had not paid the 1913 premium by October 13, when it was due. A check dated November 18 is returned. This check was signed by Ulm and was sent to cover the premium, but it was not accepted by the company for the reason that it was not accompanied by a health certificate, which is necessary when payment of a premium has not been made within thirty days of when due. A post office money order for eighty-six cents is also returned. It was sent by Attorney Clyde Bishop as grace interest after Ulm's death. The $5,000 check to Mrs. Ulm is dated December 23, 1913.

Woman's Fads and Fancies

By Margaret Mason (Written for the United Press.)

That clothes make the man is an axiom old. Yet ever exceptions are noted; Glad raiment can't always accomplish the feat. For many's the "pill" that's well coated.

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Some men don't think they are well dressed unless their socks match their cravats

Mrs. Fluster—"Dear me, I haven't a quarter to put in the slot of my gas range, and here is my washing half done and no way to heat water nor boil the clothes."

Anty Drudge—"Well, I can't help you out with any change, because I haven't any. But I'll help you in a better way. Here's a cake of Fels-Naptha Soap. Now let's see how soon you can get through with this half of your washing. I guess you've got a surprise in store for you if you haven't used Fels-Naptha Soap."

Fels-Naptha Soap saves the expense of coal or gas to heat water or boil clothes. It saves your strength, and leaves you feeling strong and well, instead of tired to death, after a big washing or a spell of house-cleaning. It does your work in half the time it used to take, in cool or lukewarm water, without boiling, hard-rubbing or scrubbing.

Follow the directions on the Red and Green Wrapper. Better buy Fels-Naptha by the box or carton.

PARIS'S NEW COMBINATION COSTUME

The popularity of the dandant was foreseen by the Parisian modistes, and their ingenuity was taxed to fashion a suitable costume—a gown that could be worn in the afternoon for shopping, calling, or walking, and at the tea hour for dancing. Now that colder weather has set in, the afternoon is not complete without a dance or two at the studio, tea room, or wherever one may be having tea.

The costume in the accompanying sketch is the result of one modiste's endeavors and answers all the purposes required. The waist and skirt proper are made of a beautiful quality of clinging black velvet. A soft black taffeta is used for the pirdle and tunic and were it not for a slight fullness where the tunic is gathered on to the pirdle, the dividing line could scarcely be noticed. This same fullness gives the peg top effect to the skirt and a Persian influence is added by the shape of the tunic, which is longer at the sides than in front. The little yoke and ruching around the sleeve ends are of white chiffon. A smart little toque of black velvet, with a feathered fancy sticking directly up in front, and a scarf of pointed fox, complete the costume.

and their handkerchiefs. Others think they're all duded up if they change their collars and have a shoe shine. The tendency nowadays, however, is all toward the monogrammed shirt and the spats and away from the made tie and the weekly collar. There is no doubt that there is a dormant Beau Brummel in every cave man and let him once sense the glamour of purple and fine linen, to say nothing of a wrist-watch, and femininity must needs look to its sartorial laurels.

If you have clean cut features, a tinge of premature grey at your temples and an air that suggests veins azure with Norman blood, then you are sure to look perfectly fascinating in one of the new stocks of black satin piped in white. Top this with one of the latest shaped silk hats with the flat brims and the crowns that slope toward the top and you'll either look like "An Amateur Gentleman" on "The Broad Highway" or a French duelist.

There is a distinct leaning toward the picturesque in present day male style and attire that fills the aesthete with hope. Stocks are the first step and either in plain black satin or relieved by the white piping they are very effective swathing the collar once with ends crossing in the back and then returning to tie in a bow under the Adam's apple. For those not extreme enough to take any stock in the stocks, the regulation four-in-hand comes in lovely new Persian patterns of rich color blendings.

If dress shirts keep on being more extravagantly tucked it would seem they'd soon be all tucked out. The masses of tiny tucks and infinitesimal pleats are the despair of the home wash lady and a delight to the eye. Last season saw the advent of these softly pleated dress shirts, the swaggiest ones with the body of delicately tinted China silk and the pleated bosom of the softest white lawn. This season the haberdashers are going a step farther and showing shirts whose pleated bosoms are also ornately embroidered in tiny dots and floral designs. The pleats have also broken into the striped and colored day-wear shirt class and are made up with the stripes running crosswise of the bosom, a style guaranteed to give one that chesty look.

Even the evening waistcoats are a mass of tiny pleats or tucks also with plain lapels. One untucked but stunning one is of black satin in white to match the black and white satin stock. The male love of jewels is still much restricted. Ornate scarfpins are taboo and only plain white or black single pearls are in best taste. The birth stone is permissible and moon stones and cats eyes, simply mounted, very good. For day wear thin disks of gold with an enameled monogram of dark or white are very smart for sleeve links. The passing of the watch fob is complete and chains of platinum links for dress or lapel straps for informal wear are now de rigueur. The up-to-the-minute watch is thin as a wafer and open faced. It is also elaborately monogrammed.

The formal stick comes in clouded malacca mounted with an egg shaped silver head engraved with a linked monogram. For the lounge stick the lighter woods have lost favor and they now come in medium dark woods with a crooked handle tipped with silver.

Hideos fancies have been allowed to run riot in the bulky plaid mackinaws and many weird soft hats, but the well dressed man knows them not. One must draw the line somewhere and a mackinaw is a good place to draw it.

Since Paul Poiret has night-gowned and fingered the fair sex in the impressionistic manner of tinted linen bordered in vivid contrasting tones, it may meet that the impressionistic pajama should take its place in the up-to-date man's wardrobe. Some stunning effects come in plain shades of old blue bordered in purple and monogrammed in the same or a combination of old rose and green, ecru, and cerise. The futurist pajama undoubtedly fill a long felt want and make it now possible for a peachy Paul Poiret nightie to retire appropriately accompanied.

LOW DEATH RATE FROM ALCOHOLISM

Very Small Per Cent of 753,308 Deaths in U. S. in 1910 from This Cause

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—King alcohol does not cause such a heavy percentage of deaths in this country as might be gathered from the talk of temperance workers, according to government statistics. Out of 753,308 deaths during 1910 causes of which were ascertained by the Department of Commerce, less than three-eighths of one per cent of them were caused by alcoholism. One ninth of these who succumbed to the demon rum were women.

Natives of the United States are not so nearly addicted to excessive conviviality as those born in other countries. Only three-tenths of one per cent—one-eighth of these were women—died from excessive drinking during 1910.

Scandinavians in the United States sacrificed more of their number to drink than any other nationality, four-fifths of the usual one per cent of deaths being due to hard and sincere application to it. It appears to be confined almost entirely to the men of this nation. Only one-twenty-second of the deaths in their ranks were of the gentler sex.

Germans, supposed to be of a heavy drinking nation, were below the general average in deaths from drinking, two-sevenths of one per cent of the deaths of Germans in America being due to this cause. One twentieth of them were women. The Irish paid heavy toll, five-eighth of one per cent dying from the cause. One-fifth of them were women.

Italian women may well be proud of the record set by women of their country in the United States. Not a single death among those recorded among Italian women was due to the assimilation of rum in great quantities, although Italian men died from this cause to the extent of one-third of one per cent of the total number of Italian deaths.

Fruit World Reviews Citrus Situation in Eastern Markets

The Fruit World, in its review of the citrus situation, says:

"The holiday shipments have all gone forward, and reports from the principal eastern markets show a wide range of prices being received. Of an offering of twenty carloads of lemons in the New York auction on Thursday this week the general run of the fruit was poor and the average prices received ranged from $1.30 to $2.95 per box. Advances from eastern markets state that California lemons are not showing the proper color and maturity requisite for a good movement of fruit. Fruit showing a very good quality is readily snapped up, but the poor quality off-color lemons meet with exceptionally slow sale. "The Christmas pool of oranges closed the latter part of last week and there will be very little picking of fruit until about the second week in January. "The cold nights are causing the fruit to make sugar rapidly and to take on color, and, when the packing houses commence operations in full swing after the usual holiday lull, the fruit promises to be of such quality and condition as to meet the most exacting requirements of the trade in the Eastern markets. "From November 1, this season, to date, Southern California has shipped a total of 645 carloads of lemons, as against 1462 carloads to same date last season, while Tulare County has shipped a total of 3332 carloads of lemons, as against 1705 carloads to the corresponding date last season. Butte County's shipments of oranges have been somewhat delayed owing to the slow maturing of the fruit this season, and shippers in that district have only sent forward a total of 272 carloads, as against 546 same date last season. "The market on California lemons has eased off considerably, due to the abnormally large quantity of foreign lemons that are available for sale at this time.

"Sales of California lemons in the Eastern markets this week showed a range of average prices received from $3.20 to $5.35.

"Shipments of California lemons are increasing materially, a total of 38 carloads having been forwarded the past seven days.

"The demand at this time comes mostly from the Eastern markets, practically no demand being reported from Western points."
